Ivy,

You might have this already, but here is Jeremiah's explanation of the situation. He was appointed by Murkowski in 05 to a one year term, then reappointed to a 3 year term in 2006, so his term is up June 30, 2009. He and Trevor McCabe are business partners in Alaska Northern Outfitters (his guide business) along with his brother Ezra. Cook Inlet commercial fishermen sent a letter asking the governor to remove him due to the violation. I specifically asked Jeremiah when we spoke if he had other violations or whether anything else might be forthcoming and he assured me that he does not. [Privileged or Personal Material Red Privileged or Personal Material Redacted]. Let me know if the Governor wants any more info.

Denby,

Attached is the background information provided by Board of Fisheries member Jeremiah Campbell on his transporter services violation. The citation was for violating 5 AAC 12.75.400(c)(4) Transporter Activity Report, which was a misdemeanor. At his court appearance yesterday he pleaded no contest and was fined $500 with $250 suspended.

The error on his part was incorrectly filling out the required transporter activity report. There was a change in the regulation requiring signature of the actual person providing the transportation, but the reporting form had not been changed. He had filled the form out as he had done in the past as a representative of the company he owns with his brother, but he was not aware of the change in the regulation since it was not reflected on the form.

Subject: Short summary of judge's order re Unit 13 Tier II scoring

This afternoon, Judge Jack Smith issued an injunction negating two aspects of the new Board of Game regulations (adopted at the March 07 meeting) controlling Tier II subsistence permit scoring for Unit 13.

1) The judge ruled that the income cap for Unit 13 Tier II applications was valid, but overturned the part of the reg that caused the whole application to be scored at "0" if a person received a "0" score for that question because their household exceeded the income cap. Judge Smith stated that the person should be given the other points from other questions on the application. This largely reinstates the importance of a person's answers to the "how many years have you hunted or eaten from this population" part of the application, which had made the Unit 13 hunts primarily longevity-based in the past. This was a feature that the BOG had expressly tried to change in writing the new regulation. The judge ordered the department to re-score the existing applicant pools for Unit 13 Tier II hunts using this approach. We project that the effect of this will be to allow a net increase in the number of Anchorage area applicants to participate in the hunts. The judge did not change the number of permits to be issued, so the increase in Anchorage hunters will take permits away from other communities. Notably, the judge refused to rule on the other way an application can be zeroed out—if the questions regarding customary use of the Tier II population are scored "0". So he overturned one half of the pertinent regulation but not the other, leading to questions of fairness.

2) Judge Smith also ruled against the use of the superexclusivity part of the new regulation, which prohibited Unit 13 Tier II permittees from hunting the same species elsewhere in the state during the same year. Apparently he felt this was unfairly applied to only one game management unit in the state, although the BOG enacted the provision to try to persuade people without a strong personal Unit 13 hunting history not to apply for a Unit 13 subsistence hunt.

Jeremiah was cited for a violation involving his big game transporting business. He pled no contest and paid a 150 fine. In an email from cora, she says that the troopers were investigating jeremiah's brother, ezra, for having a client kill 2 black bears in 1 regulatory year. Ezra thought the 1 bear limit was for a calendar year, not per regulatory year. Ezra guided a client who shot a bear in july 2005 and may 2006. This is a violation because the regulatory year runs from july 1, 2005 to june 30, 2006.

During the investigation, troopers found that jeremiah had signed a hunt record for a hunt where ezra provided the transportation. Regulations require that the person providing transportation be the one to sign the report. troopers indicated via cora that jeremiah cooperated fully with the investigation and didn't lie or hide the matter. Colonel folger said this is a minor violation. Cora says it's not the type of violation that "merits automatic removal.". Bob tcacz has contacted cora about this matter. Jeremiah was appointed under murkowski and is sport fisherman from seward. I believe he has 1 or 2 yrs left in his term. We can compile a list of candidates if you want somw options. We have a few good names from last time and we've received more apps also. I will stand by before I do anything.

Thanks
